

CHAIRMAN SPEAKS

Dear Families,

The lessons for our students don't end with the final bell of the day if they're involved in extracurricular activities. In fact, the learning experience that comes from participation in various activities like drama, music, speech, athletics, etc., promotes lifetime values that cannot always be learnt in the classroom.

Responsibility, respect, fairness, team spirit and trustworthiness are the lifetime values imbibed through athletics and all these inculcate the principles of good sportsmanship. With these, the spirit of competition thrives, fueled by honest rivalry, courteous relationship and graceful acceptance of the results.

This is a part of our educational mission. We will always look forward to serve you in the years ahead and would like appreciate your continued support.

My Journey in GES by Shubh Samir Shah (Head Boy)

Every human has to play several roles in life. Some are good whereas some are bad. The most beautiful role which every human enjoys to play is of a student in the school. My school Life was quite different and wonderful. I played two roles at a time one of a student and another of a headboy. The day I entered this school as a small nursery kid, my journey of beautiful memories began. I had my own family in school which included my teachers and my friends. I was one of the naughtiest student till grade X. But the day I took over the responsibilities of my school as a head boy, I became quite sincere and disciplined.

The moment I was handed over the badge of the Head Boy of GES English Medium School. It was the moment of pride and honour. Initially I was not able to fulfil my duties properly, but with the encouragement and support of my teachers I played my part perfectly. I enjoyed every moment of my school life and have collected beautiful memories to carry throughout my life.
